Supporting Families Through the Youth Hockey Journey

Youth hockey has become increasingly complex. Families are often expected to make high-stakes decisions long before they are necessary, while navigating pressure from agents, advisors, and outside voices. Helvetic Summit Advising exists to provide clarity, structure, and perspective so families can support their child with confidence rather than stress.

What Parents Gain

- Clear understanding of development pathways and realistic timelines
  - Confidence in decision-making without urgency or external pressure
  - Guidance navigating early agent interest responsibly
  - Reduced stress and outside noise
  - Alignment between player goals, family values, and long-term development

Support Beyond the Ice

Our work extends beyond performance. Families are supported in managing expectations, maintaining balance between hockey, education, and personal life, and understanding the emotional and mental demands of long-term development.

An Independent Perspective

Helvetic Summit Advising works exclusively for the player and the family. We are not agents, recruiters, or contract negotiators. This independence allows us to provide honest guidance without conflicts of interest.

Education Through Experience

Families receive experience-based education on development pathways, league structures, realistic timelines, and how to identify misinformation and external pressure early.

Communication Without Barriers

Verbal support is available in English, Italian, German, French, and Swedish, with planned expansion to include Finnish representation.

Our Commitment to Families

We commit to integrity, restraint, and transparency. We will never manufacture urgency or promise outcomes. Our role is to protect development so families can focus on what truly matters.
